Four Defendants Plead Guilty in County Court

Man Who Had Slot Machine Fined $50—Motorist Who Drove While Intoxicated Must Pay $500—Sentence Suspended in Two Cases.

In county court Monday afternoon several cases were disposed of when defendants were arraigned before Judge Joseph M. Fowler. In several cases pleas of not guilty were received and the defendants furnished bail. District Attorney Traver appeared for the people and arraigned several defendants who were indicted by the last grand jury in sealed indictments.

Earl Lennon and Ellsworth Babcock, charged with burglary, third degree, alleged to have been committed in the town of Rochester on December 6, were arraigned. Charles J. Flanagan appeared for both and entered pleas of not guilty and asked for ten days to make further motions. Cash bail in the sum of $300 each was fixed by the court. These two young men with Beverly Lennon were arrested on a charge of having entered a place at Kyserville.

Tony Sorrento, charged with assault, second degree, alleged to have been committed on November 24, in the city of Kingston, entered a plea of not guilty through his attorney, J. LeRoy Gill. Bail in the sum of $1,000 was furnished.

$50 for Slot Machine.
Glorio Balmo, charged with possessing a slot machine commonly known as a slot machine, pleaded guilty. The machine was seized in this city on November 17 last. Frank W. Brooks appeared for the defendant. Judge Fowler imposed a fine of $50 or one day in jail for each $4 of the fine if unpaid. It was paid.

Motorist Must Pay $500.
George F. Houston of New Paltz, indicted for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, also entered a plea of guilty when arraigned. Houston said he was "full" when he drove his car in the village on November 28. His license was revoked, he was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 to the state and a jail sentence of 30 days was imposed. The jail sentence, however, was suspended provided Houston pay to the county of Ulster $100 to reimburse the county for the prosecution. He said he was working but had no money at the present time but could get it. He was given a week to get the money and make good the payment. He was allowed one week to make good and must appear at 2 o'clock on the adjourned day.

Not Guilty, Says McCordie.
John J. McCordie, indicted on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, was arraigned and entered a plea of not guilty. Andrew J. Cook appeared for him. McCordie was driving a car down Broadway on February 7 of this year and when near Foxhall avenue collided with a trolley car. He furnished bail in the sum of $500.

Sentence Suspended on Contant.
Morgan K. Contant, Jr., pleaded guilty to the charge of petit larceny. He was indicted on a charge of grand larceny, second degree, alleged to have been committed in New Paltz on July 15 last. On account of his past good record and the fact that he was led to commit the crime by reason of the company he was keeping, Mr. Traver asked that a plea of guilty be accepted by the court. The plea was accepted by the court and imposition of sentence was suspended and he was paroled in the custody of Probation Officer Service.

Bulley Will Go Straight.
Raymond Bulley, who had formerly entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of attempting to take an automobile from a garage at Ashokan, changed his plea to guilty. Bulley, with Marion Jones, who is now serving time at Elmira, entered the garage and tried to take an automobile. Mr. Traver said that Bulley was not directly responsible for the act and that Jones had been the instigator of the act and that as Bulley was the support of his mother and had signed his intention to go straight in the future, he would ask that sentence be imposed and that suspended during good behavior. He was sentenced to jail for three months and sentence suspended. He will report to Probation Officer Service.

Grant Lane, charged with assault, second degree, alleged to have taken place in the town of Olive on February 16, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned. N. H. Fessenden appeared for him and asked that bail be continued.

Several other cases were called but the defendants failed to appear when their cases were called and it was probable that the district attorney will not show up.

Large Number of License Plate Transfers.
State the opening of the Used Car Exchange at the Doc Smith Garage, Main street and Clifton avenue, there have been quite a number of transfers of automobile license plates at the local motor vehicle bureau, Fair street. At noon Monday there were sixteen transfers and a number during the afternoon and today.

Jamo is known to have applied for a victualer's license.

Finding Flaws in Hindenburg

German Presidential Candidate Finds Enemies Make Use of His Utterances to Show Unfitness for Office—England Concerned Over His Candidacy.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, April 14.—Hindenburg's enemies were busy today plucking his career to pieces, taking particular pains to emphasize his "utter ignorance of politics." Republican newspapers turned the nationalist presidential candidate's own utterances against him, finding apparently ready campaign ammunition in them.

Welt Am Montag reminded its readers that the field marshal in March, 1915, told Senator Beveridge: "We do not dislike France and Russia. We think a lot of the French. But England! We hate England! She caused it all." Two years and a half later, after the United States had joined forces with the Allies, the newspaper pointed out, Hindenburg ridiculed the prospect of America becoming a real factor in the war.

"They cannot 'Barnum' us," he said. "They are too much afraid of Japan. But even if America sends large contingents of troops to Europe, it won't alter the situation."

Candidacy Alarms England

London, April 14.—The immediate withdrawal of Hindenburg from the German presidential race was the unusual "demand" voiced by Lord Beaverbrook's newspaper today.

They predicted if the field marshal won at the polls April 26, it will mean "an armed France and no debt payment to Great Britain." The Beaverbrook press said that Germany has made a remarkable recovery and Poland and Czechoslovakia, as well as France, would be aroused should Hindenburg win. These extreme statements indicated the extent of alarm in some British circles over the dual danger of Hindenburg's candidacy and the French crisis, which it was feared would combine to bring a return of European chaos.

Even the staid and dignified London Times, in its comment on the German presidential situation, shows concern over what may happen, as a result of the latest German political movement.

General Sir Ian Hamilton, army authority and political writer, in a speech declared that England was aiding Hindenburg by prolonging the occupation of Cologne. He said such action aroused suspicion and was worth "thousands and thousands of votes" for the former leader of the Kaiser's armies.

Gleason Will Supervise Census

Secretary of State Selects Man of Ability to Supervise Work of Enumerating State's Inhabitants, Which Takes Place in June.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, April 14.—With the leasing of quarters in Albany as well as New York city, and the appointment of Lafayette B. Gleason as state supervisor of census, the big task of building up the human machine that will handle the greatest count ever made of New York's state residents, was launched this week by Florence E. S. Knapp, secretary of state. The headquarters of the coming census will be located in the building, a short distance from the capitol, which has been housing the state bonus bureau. The New York branch will be located on Forty-second street.

The census is to be taken during a portion of June. Over 7,000 enumerators will be employed in the field work. In addition to these, there will be persons known as supervisors, who will be in charge of a district. Each and every appointment, however, is to be made solely by Mrs. Knapp, in her capacity as secretary of state. With the exception of Mr. Gleason's appointment none have as yet been made, and there will be no announcement of the supervisors selected for some little time yet.

The last state census was taken in 1915, when Francis M. Hugo was secretary of state. The taking of the census is provided for in the state constitution, and occurs once every ten years. Between 1915 and 1920, there was an increase in population in this state of about 700,000, and if the same ratio holds good for the past five years, New York state will show a population at the conclusion of the coming census of over eleven million.

Gold and Fame After Famine

Boy Artist of Woodstock Struggles Through Hard Winter and is Sent to Hospital—Exhibitions Will Not Enough to Care for Him.

In this morning's issue of the New York Herald-Tribune the following article appears, telling of the struggles and collapse of a boy artist at Woodstock and of his successful exhibition.

No one knew much about Edmond Barry when he trudged with a slight limp into this community of artists last July. He was a shy youth and he didn't say much about himself.

When he got a job taking telegraph messages relayed by telephone from Kingston, the metropolis of this Catskill region, he became less reticent and people learned that he had limped from New York city because he wanted to be an artist. He too, in company with many famous members of the American art world, had come to Woodstock to follow the gleam.

Even then no one knew that Edmond's small salary at the telegraph office was all the money he had, and when the office was closed last fall Edmond stayed on and began spending his meager savings for food and fuel. Two weeks ago, after having survived the rigors of the mountain winter and fed himself less and less frequently as his money diminished, he collapsed. Neighbors found him virtually in a state of coma and he was sent down the winding road to the hospital.

Two days later, in the immaculate white exhibition hall that has housed the work of George Bellows and other established artists, the walls were lined with the work of Edmond Barry. The exhibit was announced by the board of governors and the community flocked to it. The boy had finished seventy-five drawings and water colors during his hermit-like winter in Woodstock and a dozen of these were auctioned, bringing $300.

Another exhibit of Barry's work is to take place on Saturday in the hall that faces Woodstock's quaint old square, and friends hope to raise a considerable larger sum to care for him in the hospital and to give him another and a better chance to achieve his ambition and conquer the bright orange of art.

A. F. of L. Hails Magna Charta

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, April 14.—Termining their "magna charta," American Federation officials were jubilant today over the United States Supreme Court nullifying the Kansas Industrial court law, which for more than two years has been the center of heated controversy.

"The supreme court has established the charter rights of labor as laid down by the American Constitution," William Green, president of the Federation, said to International News Service. "The Kansas law forced both labor and capital to submit to arbitration and comply with the decision of the arbitration tribunal, providing penalties for non compliance. 'The decision leaves labor free as it should be to bargain collectively with employers,' Green declared. 'In my opinion it completely destroys the effectiveness of the Kansas industrial court and American labor can now enter an era of new progress with this milestone behind it.'"

Green said the whole industrial atmosphere had been clarified and both capital and labor would materially benefit by the decision. "Compulsory arbitration as provided by the Kansas statute, carried to its logical conclusion means industrial slavery," he said. "If you can force men to work they are slaves."

Fleet Ready for War Maneuvers In the Pacific

Activities Will Center Around Hawaiian Islands, Where Oahu Will Be Presumed to be in Possession of Enemy—Army and Naval Units There Will Resist Attack.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Aboard U. S. S. Seattle, April 14.—Carrying most of the "umpires" who will decide the various issues in the "battle" to be staged by the United States battle fleet in its Hawaiian maneuvers and attempts to capture the island of Oahu, the United States ship Seattle, flagship of the fleet under the command of Admiral Robert S. Coontz, will steam out of San Francisco harbor this afternoon for Honolulu.

The Seattle, which will be neutral ship during the maneuvers, is sailing one day ahead of the fleet of 146 war craft carrying approximately 4,000 men and which will leave San Francisco tomorrow morning. The Seattle will reach Honolulu April 20.

Just when the fleet will reach Honolulu or the island of Oahu is problematical. Some time while it is en route the commander will receive word from Washington "that war has been declared upon the United States" and will be sent to proceed with all possible haste and recapture Oahu from the "enemy."

From the instant these orders are received the entire fleet will be stripped to wartime regulations and will start maneuvering for the capture.

"The attack" to be staged by the fleet upon Oahu will be resisted by the various regular army units, national guard and reserve forces, as well as the navy units now at Honolulu and Pearl Harbor. Throughout the maneuvers the fleet will be known as the "blue forces" while the units of Oahu will be known as the "black forces."

When the maneuvers are declared at an end the fleet will reassemble and proceed to Honolulu.

Following a week's overhauling at Honolulu and until June 7, the fleet will engage in further maneuvers during which other problems incident to the maneuvers will be worked out. When the Oahu rendezvous is at an end the scouting fleet, minus the light cruisers, Detroit, Trenton, Memphis and Raleigh, will return to their home base on the east coast, while the remainder of the fleet will engage in still further tactics until July 10, when passage will be taken to Pago-Pago, island of Tutuila, from where, after a two days' stop the fleet will proceed to Australia.

WARNING AGAINST IMPROPER DRESSING IN VACCINATION.

Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, of the United States Public Health Service, today issued a warning to the medical profession and to the public against the use of lion pads as a dressing in vaccination against smallpox.

This singular use of lion pads appears to be more common than would be supposed. Several fatal cases of tetanus, following their use, have recently appeared in the United States, and tests made in the Hygienic Laboratory of the public health service have demonstrated the presence of tetanus spores in lion pads from the same source as those which were associated with tetanus cases.

"The public health service," says Surgeon General Cumming, "disapproves the use of any kind of shield as a vaccination dressing. The employment of a shield tends to prevent evaporation, to retain heat, moisture or discharge, with a consequent softening of the vesicle, to obstruct lymphatic drainage, and to create conditions apparently favorable for the development of infection."

Surgeon General Cumming says that the cross vaccination method of vaccination, which was formerly common and which is still adhered to by some, is dangerous. He recommends that if an incision is made for the purpose of vaccinating, it should not draw blood, if possible, to avoid this, and that it should not be more than one-sixteenth of an inch in length. If two incisions are made, they should be one inch apart. If they are placed closer together than one inch, they are very likely to coalesce. If vaccination is done in the method of making a small abrasion, such as may be done with a specially prepared instrument, this should not be more than one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter, and if two such abrasions are made, they should be one inch apart.

Surgeon General Cumming points out the fact that since 1890 six million persons have been vaccinated by the physicians of the army and navy without a single case of tetanus having occurred.

The Voice From The Tower Says

Executive News: Writes of the Good Time in Store for All Who Attend the Ulster County Boy Scout Dance and Entertainment.

The appended contribution anent the Ulster County Boy Scout dance to be held at the New York state armory on Friday, May 1, is from the pen of Executive and Announcer G. Henry Neslage:

You remember when you were a boy how you liked to get away into the woods with one of your mother's bed sheets for a tent, and camp out. Do you? Perhaps, then, you will recall, too, how you used to want to play soldier with your boy buddies. By jinks, yes; you were captain, generally. As you think about those days I'll bet you wish you could live them all over again.

Well, you can—by proxy at least. All these things which you did as a boy were perfectly natural and desirable. You sometimes had trouble making mother believe that, but it's true all the same.

The boys of today—who will be the men of tomorrow—can have all this fun and a lot more than you and I didn't know about, through the Boy Scouts. You know all about that splendid organization and what it does for the boys in building character, citizens and sound clean bodies.

The Boy Scouts need your help as a sort of big brother. Now don't become frightened, we are not going to ask you for a donation, but instead are going to give you a chance to enjoy one of the most pleasant evenings you ever had by simply purchasing two tickets (we say two because you will want to take that best girl of yours) for the Boy Scout entertainment and dance, the proceeds of which will be used to continue the scout work in Ulster county as well as help with the scout camp. Maybe you'll get a chance to go camping with them if you buy these tickets. Perhaps they'll let you take off your shoes and stockings and wade in the creek.

And remember this, that besides a dance with continuous music by those two well known orchestras, Zucca's singing orchestra and Malschneider's WDBZ concert and dance orchestra, the committee has prepared the best entertainment ever gotten together for an affair of this kind. "Honest, if you were asked $2.50 per ticket you would come out ahead." There is one feature alone that is worth double what is being asked and when you see H. W. Rogers at work with the "ghosts" and see how willingly they obey his every command you will understand why he has been termed "The Master of the Mediums."

Of course, that is not all, no, not even half of the entertainment you will get, but even if you were not going to get any of these features, don't you think the project is worth two "bucks"? Of course, you can buy more tickets if you want; but two dollars will get you and your wife or friend in "under the tent."

And, by the way, we have 3,000 of those tickets to sell to the "fellers" in and around Ulster county. Know one that would enjoy going to this entertainment and dance? Get him to purchase a couple tickets, it will help a lot. The date you know is Friday, May 1.

Grammatical Slips

"Educated men don't say 'don't,'" remarked a great mayor of New York, now gone to rest. But they do. They did, even then. They also say "ain't" when they are not thinking about it, and may yet come to saying it deliberately. While they are about it, they may even take "It's me" under their protecting wings.—New York World.

BUSINESS SECTION OF ONEIDA WIPED OUT
By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Oneida, N. Y., April 14.—A mass of smoldering ruins today marks the site of the heart of the Earville business section where Sunday the worst fire in village history wiped out a hotel, town hall, public library, business block and several barns and apartments. The loss was estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000 only partly covered by insurance.

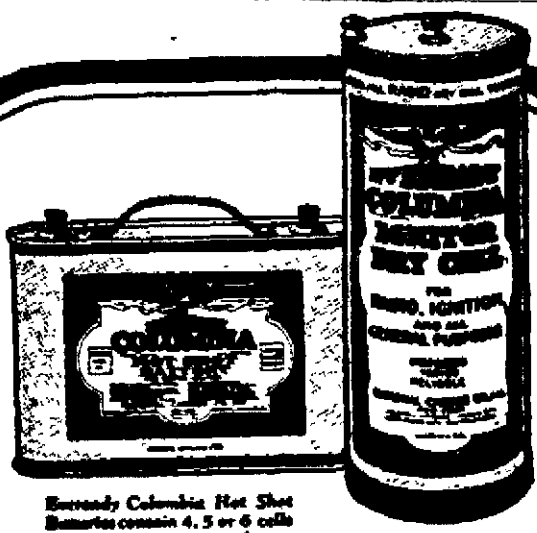

Breaking out early Sunday in the barns of the Fawdy Hotel the flames spread rapidly and last night when weary firemen from Hamilton, Sherbourne, Norwich, and other nearby villages left the scene the ruins still were smoldering. The remainder of the business section and several dwelling houses were saved by a change in the wind during the day.

NEGROES IN THE NORTH.

After reading articles in the Philadelphia Tribune on "negro housing conditions" in that city, the Philadelphia Record concludes that "some of our multimillionaire philanthropists who have lately contributed with great liberality to the cause of educating the negro in the South would have better served humanity by endeavoring to alleviate the distressing conditions under which large numbers of the race are compelled to live in the North."

In the opinion of the Record a level-headed farmer "would hardly attempt to raise pigs under conditions parallel to those under which many negro infants are being raised—until disease snatches them—in this community." And referring to the "incredible overcrowding of the negro population in unsanitary, disease-breeding quarters," the same newspaper says: "It is not surprising that the enforced promiscuous mingling of the sexes, the joint use of single habitations by several large families, the downright indecency of the circumstances under which financial necessity compels these people to live, undermine their health and their morality, contribute to the spread of epidemics and jeopardize the general welfare."

Surely such a picture of conditions in the North is worth the attention and grave consideration of the philanthropists so deeply interested in the education of the negro in the South. Possibly they, like many of their neighbors, are too ready to assume that the black man, once he is on Northern soil, is sure of all he needs, and that he is a proper subject for charity only when he is located in the South.

INDIANS AND JUSTICE.

A curious and touching letter of appeal to the country is published in the New York Times by five Indians of New Mexico, "officers" of the five pueblos which they name. In a "general assembly" they "do say and pray to the good white people of the United States, to aim in protecting our rights as Indians, and to keep our religion and religious rights as there are some people who are trying to destroy and make us abandon our religion, which is so dear to us, as is, and will be to any other Race or Nation of the earth surface."

They complain that "those who are trying to destroy our religion" are making false statements, "trying to make believe the good people of the United States and officers that our religion is or are wicked in the human sight." They submit that the Pueblo Indians are "Christians." "We believe that there is only one God who will reward us according we deserve. But * * * those people who are interested in our Pueblo lands are making false statements simply to weaken our unity in our rights. Those same people who accuse us being pagans, are no more Christian than we are. They belong to the same church we belong. And in other words they practice the same religion, ceremonies as we do, and dance as we do, which we offer to prove they are not wicked as they claim."

Whatever our view as to the propriety of certain Indian dances, all must sympathize with the writers of this unique contribution to the subject when they submit that "we want to keep our religion as any other white people would like to keep his."

It is announced from Berlin that Wagner's opera, "Parsifal," will be broadcast to the entire world on Good Friday "by way of the station at Hocknerkusterhausen." A station with such a name as that suggests obstruction at the very start, but fortunately radio waves ride on the ether which readily passes through solid rock and metal of any thickness.

Under protective laws wild and tame of many kinds are "coming back" to a surprising extent in the favoring sections of even the most populous states. This appears to be true also of the beavers, which were hunted for their valuable pelts until they were almost exterminated. Although trappers caught many beavers in the Adirondacks during the open season last winter, it is reported that the great number of the animals in that section was not materially decreased. Though the conservationists are pleased, this "coming back of the beavers" is not everywhere welcomed, for as one observer puts it, "they have a habit of making artificial swamps where swamps are not wanted, and they cut down trees that people prefer to have standing."

TOO MUCH ACID.

One of the words you hear almost every day now is acidosis. In former days you complained about certain pains in abdomen, perhaps a "sour" stomach, or intestine, perhaps spoke about heart burn, biliousness, and extra desire for air, and so forth.

In former days also your parents, wisely, although ignorant of the causation, gave you some baking soda, just to "sweeten" up your system.

This condition is now so well understood by your physician and by yourself, that you know that there is too much acid in the blood. The blood in its normal condition is slightly alkaline. It will handle a considerable quantity of extra acids, in the system, because it has what is known as an alkaline "reserve."

When, however, this reserve gets used up, then symptoms such as mentioned above ensue.

Our research men are now in a position to estimate the amount of acidosis in the system. The acids are removed mainly by the kidneys and the lungs. An apparatus that measures the amount of carbon dioxide in the air in the lungs, estimates at the same time the amount or degree of acidosis.

When too much acid gets into the blood, it naturally attacks the alkaline contents, and the result is an overdose or increased amount of waste gas, carbon dioxide.

Now this gas must be thrown off because the center in the brain that controls the lungs, immediately notifies the lungs to get busy, and throw this gas out of the system. Thus when the blood comes to the lungs to be purified, the lungs are working faster than usual, so as to get rid of this waste gas. That is the reason that one of the symptoms of acidosis is this feeling that you need more air, you are air hungry, as it is called.

Aside from keeping down on the amount of acid forming foods, fat should likewise be eaten sparingly, fat in any form, that is in meat, milk or eggs, where little or no exercise is taken. This is very necessary as the fats do not get completely burned and form acids. Plenty of water is wise, taken in small quantities throughout the day.

STRIKE IN BALTIMORE MAY DELAY SPRING PLANTING

A complete tie-up in the Baltimore harbor, due to a strike by the captains and mates of tugboats serving the harbor, is causing concern to farmers along the Atlantic seaboard. Baltimore is the headquarters of many large fertilizer companies who have their principal plants located on deep water in the harbor. One of these is the Davidson Chemical Company, the largest producer of acid phosphate, an important element in most mixed fertilizers. Another is the Standard Guano Company, which claims one of the largest plants in the world.

These plants, together with others in the harbor, depend upon almost continuous service by lighters and barges. Because of the refusal of the tugboat crews to handle this kind of traffic, and their success in intimidating the owners of launches who might otherwise be induced to take care of it, the whole manufacturing schedule is upset and in the case of many plants is completely paralyzed.

According to H. E. Babcock, general manager of the farmer-owned G. L. F. Exchange, which has an interest in a large fertilizer plant in the Baltimore harbor, delays in shipments of fertilizer from Baltimore are inevitable and will set back shipping schedules from two to four weeks. This means that if spring comes early, as it now promises to do, many farmers will not receive fertilizer in time for planting, even though the strike should be settled immediately. Some farmers will be able to get supplies from centers other than Baltimore. A very large transfer of orders, however, will be likely to congest an already heavy shipping schedule under way at these points so that much may not be gained by the transfer. Farmers interviewed on the situation report that in the cases of some crops they will apply the fertilizer after the crops are in, many acres of oats and spring grains will probably go in with the plan of top dressing them with fertilizer when it is received.

General Regional Planning Law

Bill Permitting the Establishment of General Regional Planning Board is Expected to Help Communities in Zoning.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., April 14.—Governor Smith has just signed a bill permitting the establishment of regional planning boards by any county or counties and the cities, towns and villages of any county or counties in the state. This bill, introduced by Senator Williams, was sponsored by the State Commission of Housing and Regional Planning.

The function of these boards will be to study the needs and conditions of regional and community planning and zoning in such county or counties. The communities are authorized to raise the necessary funds for this purpose by taxation. The members of the boards will serve without compensation.

Governor Smith has taken a close interest in the development of regional planning in the state. In his recent housing message to the legislature he recommended the enactment of this law, so that legal sanction might be given to the voluntary organizations already formed by counties in several parts of the state.

The general regional planning law, as the law is called, is of immediate interest to the capital district region where the creation of a port district brought to the front the question of comprehensive planning in this region. To anticipate and prepare for the expected growth of the district in commerce, manufacturing and population, an unofficial regional planning organization embracing all the municipalities within the counties of Albany, Schenectady and Rensselaer was formed recently with the aid and cooperation of the state commission of housing and regional planning. The chairman of the Capital District Planning Association is Mayor Hackett of Albany.

The governor recently signed a similar bill for the Niagara Frontier Region where, with the cooperation of the State Commission of Housing and Regional Planning regional planning was initiated. The area covers the two counties extending from Lake Erie on the north to a few miles south of Buffalo on the south, lying along the Niagara river. It involves six cities and twenty-one villages. Until the signing of the Niagara Frontier Law a voluntary body of representatives of these cities and villages worked together in formulating a comprehensive plan. With the signing of the bill an official regional planning board is created in the Niagara Frontier Region, which is authorized to maintain an office with adequate technical staff to develop the necessary plans. Its work will be financed by appropriations from the co-operating municipalities and counties.

A feature of both bills is the provision that the regional planning boards shall make a report annually to the State Bureau of Housing and Regional Planning.

"The General regional planning law," said Clarence S. Stein, chairman of the Commission of Housing and Regional Planning, "will stimulate the development of regional planning boards in the state. In this development New York state is rapidly taking a leading position."

"Realizing that most of the city's problems have their origin in areas outside the limits and beyond the control of the municipality—for example, sewer systems, highways, water systems—cities are getting together to plan for an entire area. This law gives official authority to such effort on the part of municipalities and counties which desire to cooperate in planning on a regional rather than local basis."

HAY GROWERS WIN FREIGHT RATE CONTROVERSY

Prompt work upon the part of the transportation director of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation recently saved hay growers in New York state many thousands of dollars. The opportunity to render this service came as a result of a move on the part of members of the Michigan Hay and Grain Association to secure lower freight rates on hay from Michigan points to the east and south.

A hearing on their proposal was held in Washington late in March before the Interstate Commerce Commission. Transportation Director E. V. Titus of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation being unable to attend, deputized G. Thomas Powell of Nassau county to represent the Federation.

According to Mr. Powell, the Michigan delegation, when they found that their request for a reduction in rate was not likely to be granted, asked for an increase in the New York State rate. This was also denied them.

As far as New York hay growers are concerned, the danger of this western competition is not yet removed as another attempt will undoubtedly be made by Michigan hay growers to secure a schedule of freight rates which will in effect be detrimental to their interests.

The New York State Farm Bureau Federation is on record to fight all such attempts and based on the experience in its first brush with the Michigan interest can be safely relied upon by New York farmers to protect their interests.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

COW OPINIONS

"Moo, moo, moo," said Mrs. Cow, "no one has asked me for my opinions of late, but I think I shall tell some of them, just the same."

"In fact, no one has asked me my opinions at all, either of late or before."

"Don't let it discourage you," said Miss Cow, "moo, moo, don't let it do that."

"I'm glad you don't think I should be discouraged, moo, moo," said Mrs. Cow.

"Well, what are your opinions, Mrs. Cow?"

The cows were all out in the pasture, for the spring had come and they were enjoying the nice days.

They had had rather a shut-in winter in the barn. It had been a cold winter with a good deal of snow.

Some of the cows had wandered far up in the pasture near the woods, but Mrs. Cow and Miss Cow were down by the fence, near the farmhouse.

"In the first place," said Mrs. Cow, "I think it is absurd the way people have picnics. I mean, particularly, the people who travel in automobiles."

"You know, Miss Cow, they have got to be in a hurry, too."

"Really, I wouldn't be in the least surprised to see them too hot horns at each other before long to hurry each other up."

"They come along here. They put their lunch basket down. They begin to eat."

"If anyone eats slowly, someone in the party fumes and fumes and says: 'Come on now, we can't sit here all day, you know. We've got to be getting on. We've a long distance to make yet.'"

"And the person who has been taking a little longer hurries down a few more bits and then patiently says: 'I'm all through.'"

"The one who has been hurrying, then says: 'Are you sure you're all through? I don't want to hurry you, you know.'"

"And the person says 'Yes, I'm through,' in a sad voice."

"Then they're off in a cloud of dust, as the saying is."

"I just can't understand it. Why don't they sit awhile and talk and chew? Or if they haven't anything to talk about, why don't they just chew? They'd digest their food better. They'd feel more amiable and pleasant."

"I often think the reason we're so even-tempered is because we chew so contentedly."

"But really, Miss Cow, I wouldn't be surprised, with the way they're getting to hurry more and more, to find people before long bringing special automobile horns to picnics and to hear them too and say:

"Hurry, hurry, too, too, we've no time to waste, too, too, we've got to be on our way, too, too, we're a lot of mileage to make yet, too, too."

"We don't want to get there when we dark, too, too."

"We've got to be ahead of time in come we have any time punctures, too, too. You're eaten enough, too, too."

"I wouldn't be in the least surprised if it came to that."

"And I'm of the opinion that this is no way to enjoy life or motoring or having a picnic."

"They're in such a rush they don't have a good time. They're always fussing about getting on further."

"Ah, no, Mrs. Cow doesn't approve of it. I also think it would be a good idea if every once in awhile they stopped and got out and gazed at the scenery around."

"I don't approve of this rushing so fast they don't enjoy anything. I can see from their faces they don't enjoy themselves."

"And it's my opinion that they will wear themselves out rushing."

"Yes, Mrs. Cow has opinions, and she thinks they're good ones. Probably that's what everyone thinks of her own opinions, moo, moo."

Not Always Big Men

Bill is always boasting he is a great big man, but, nevertheless, is much afraid of thunderstorms.

One night during a particularly bad one he was crying loudly, and mother, in an effort to calm him, said: "Why, Bill, aren't you ashamed to cry when you are such a big man?" Big men don't cry when it thunders."

But Bill only wept harder as he replied: "I know they don't, mother, but I'm not a big man when it thus dark."

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

II—The Influence of Marco Polo's Wanderings on the Discovery of America

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

LATE IN THE 13TH CENTURY AN EVENT OCCURRED WHICH WAS TO HAVE GREAT BEARING ON THE DISCOVERY OF AMERICA.

TWO VENETIAN MERCHANTS, NICOLO AND MAFFEO POLO, AFTER TRAVELLING FOUR YEARS ACROSS THE UNKNOWN LANDS THAT LAY TO THE EAST OF EUROPE, REACHED CHINA, THEN A MIGHTY EMPIRE.

THE POLOS WERE WELCOMED KINDLY BY THE EMPEROR, KUBLAI KHAN, WHO HAD NEVER BEFORE SEEN EUROPEANS AND WAS EAGER TO HEAR OF THE LAND IN WHICH THEY LIVED.

AFTER A BRIEF STAY IN CHINA THE POLOS RETURNED TO VENICE TO TELL OF THEIR DISCOVERY.

IN 1271, MAFFEO AND NICOLO POLO AND HIS YOUNG SON MARCO SET OUT AGAIN FOR CHINA.

KUBLAI KHAN WAS DELIGHTED TO SEE THEM AND AT HIS REQUEST THEY SPENT 24 YEARS AT HIS COURT. MARCO SERVED THE EMPEROR AS AN AMBASSADOR TO MANY LANDS AND BECAME VERY RICH.

UPON THEIR RETURN TO VENICE IN 1295, EVERYONE FLOCKED TO SEE THE TREASURES THEY HAD BROUGHT BACK AND TO HEAR OF THE WONDERS OF CATHAY.

LATER, IN 1298 DURING A WAR WITH GENOA, MARCO POLO WAS CAPTURED BY THE GENOISES, AND WHILE IMPRISONED WROTE A BOOK TELLING OF THE GREAT WEALTH OF CATHAY WHICH CAUSED A RICH TRADE TO SPRING UP BETWEEN THE ITALIAN CITIES AND THE FAR EAST.

The KITCHEN CABINET

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

Everyone knows that money alone cannot make good dishes, however good the raw material may be.

A FEW LEFTOVERS

Leftover fish seems to be a hard problem for most housewives to use wisely.

Baked Chowder.—In a buttered baking dish put a layer of sliced raw potatoes cut very thin, sprinkle with sliced onion and stewed tomato, then a layer of boiled fish; season each layer with salt and pepper and cooked bacon crushed and sprinkled over the fish, adding a little bacon fat. Moisten with water, dredge the top with flour and bake covered until the potatoes are soft, then uncover and brown. Use three potatoes, two onions, a cupful of tomatoes and one and one-half cupfuls of boiled fish, with one cupful of water and three slices of bacon and the bacon fat.

Spiced Fish With White Sauce.—Season highly any leftover boiled fish with tomato catsup, anchovy, Worcestershire and a little paprika. Prepare enough rich white sauce to pour over the fish, add two well-beaten egg yolks to each cupful of white sauce. Flake the fish, pour the sauce over it and heat in the oven.

Fish Cocktail.—Take a small piece of cold boiled halibut, remove the skin and bones and flake it. Season with salt and pepper. Make a cocktail sauce by mixing together for each glass one teaspoonful of each of tarragon vinegar, tomato catsup, lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of horseradish, and a drop of tabasco sauce.

Kedjoes.—Cook two eggs until hard. Remove all bones and skin from a cupful of leftover fish and chop it with the eggs. Take one cupful of cooked rice quite moist, add to the fish and eggs, reheat, season with salt and pepper and serve very hot. Smoked haddock or whitefish is good for this dish.

Codfish Scallop With Rice and Eggs.—Mix two tablespoonfuls of cream or melted butter with one and one-half cupfuls of boiled rice, arrange in layers with one and one-half cupfuls of creamed codfish, finish with rice. On top break four eggs, sprinkle with salt and dot with butter. Bake in the oven until the eggs are set.

Rio Bravo, the wild and turbulent river, is the name that was originally given to the Rio Grande by the first Spanish explorers in the sixteenth century, and is still used by the inhabitants of Mexico.

Today We Celebrate

THREE TRAGEDIES.

Today is the anniversary of three of the most terrible tragedies in history—a black-letter day in the calendar of humanity.

Thirteen years ago today the giant steamship Titanic, of the White Star Line, on its maiden voyage across the Atlantic, crashed into an iceberg off Grand Banks, off Newfoundland, and went down, carrying with it 1,503 people.

Sixty years ago tonight a shot rang out in a Washington theater and Abraham Lincoln, "the noblest figure of our time, the gentlest memory of the world," was lost to a nation at a time when he was most needed.

Sixty-one years ago today Archduke Maximilian of Austria and his bride, Carlotta, embarked on an Austrian frigate to begin that great adventure which was to end with the crumbling of their Mexican empire, the execution of the emperor and a life-time of madness for his devoted wife.

ABOLITION.

The abolitionist or anti-slavery society in America was organized in Philadelphia 150 years ago today, the membership being composed principally of Quakers.

Thomas Paine, author of the "Age of Reason," "The Rights of Man," "Common Sense" and other revolutionary works, was one of the earliest leaders of the anti-slavery propaganda. After the Revolution the campaign against slavery was resumed, but it did not reach an acute stage until after the second war with England.

In the meantime the United States had abolished the slave trade. A national anti-slavery society was founded in Philadelphia in 1833. Seven years later the Abolitionists divided on the question of the formation of a political party, and the two wings remained active on separate lines until the Civil War between North and South settled the question at a tremendous cost of life and treasure. Before the final triumph, however, abolition had its martyrs in Elijah Lovejoy and John Brown, while many of the leaders were mobbed and subjected to various indignities.

ARIADNE.

Ariadne, the daughter of Leo I, was married to Zeno, who succeeded as Emperor of the East, in A. D. 474. She was so disgusted with the intolerance of her husband, and so much in love with Anastasius, a man of obscure origin, that she shut Zeno, when intoxicated, into a sepulchre, where he was left to die, and her favorite, Anastasius, was placed on the throne. Her death took place in the year 515.

Just for a Change
Try sometime adding a little cream to HELLMANN'S MAYONNAISE when you use it on fruit salad, or an extra dash of lemon when you serve it with fish. You will be as delighted with these variations as with the original dressing.

Salesman Wanted

There is an opening on our sales-force for a live, high-powered salesman. The man we want is now employed, but is looking for an opportunity to better himself. The man of ability can make between $4,000 and $6,000 per year. State in your letter your qualifications and references. All communications confidential. Address

Uptown Freeman

Seems Reasonable

Since people read newspapers every day, and
People read newspaper advertising every day, and
People buy merchandise every day,
Why isn't it good business to advertise every day?
Or, at least, to advertise frequently and persistently?
If every day is a good day to try to sell goods, then
All days are good days to advertise your store—your service—your merchandise.

All Cooks Look Alike

to the hungry man, but what a sad disappointment when the "kitchen queen" quite suddenly and the table looks anything but satisfying to a zealous appetite. When in doubt as to what to do, use The Freeman's "Hide Wound" Canteen-Wood Department.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS.

A Practical Garment for Young Children.

4568. Here is a style that will appeal to the busy mother of little children, especially those of the "creepers" age. This design provides a convenient closing at the inner seam, which is very practical for children below two years of age. The garment may also be made with this seam closed, for the back is in drop style.

The pattern is cut in three sizes: 6 months, 1 and 2 years. A 6 months size requires 1 1/2 yard of 36 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date spring and summer 1925 Book of Fashions, showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

ST. REMY.

St. Remy, April 13.—The special meetings the past week were well attended. Mrs. Charles Schwab sang a solo on Thursday night, and solo at the service on Sunday, which was much appreciated by the audience.

Miss Elizabeth Hoffman was presented with a piano as a birthday surprise on Monday.

Several ladies from this place attended the birthday party at the Ed-dyville M. E. Church on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Freer entertained the Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Gulick and Harry Ellsworth and family on Thursday evening.

Fred Eckert and family were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoffman on Thursday.

As the weather is favorable many are putting in seeds and burning up rubbish.

There seems to be an epidemic of colds in this place. Several were sick the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fitzsimmons and Mrs. Laura Ford of Bridgeport, Conn., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Carney.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Vining of New Salem, were Easter guests of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Plank.

There will be a congregational meeting at the close of the church service Sunday, April 19, for the purpose of electing new officers to serve in consistency the ensuing year.

Mrs. Otto Ruge of Kingston, called at Harry Ellsworth's on Friday.

Harry Krom and family were at Accord on Sunday.

Reosa, worthy high priestess of Newburgh and William A. Van Valkenburg, watchman of shepherds of Kingston. The newly elected officers to be installed are: Flora L. Osterander, worthy high priestess of Kingston and Frank H. Cook, watchman of shepherds of Catskill. A large attendance is expected and good refreshments are promised.

For all these uses you will find the big new package more convenient.

THE FRONT FLARED COAT MEETS WITH SUCCESS.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

When the straight line was the alpha and omega of fashion, it was said that its popularity was the direct result of its "youthifying" quality.

Nowadays, a flared gown "is so much younger," says the bib saleswoman, and, in most cases, she is right. The flare which has the greatest appeal is the one from side to side, leaving the back straight. This silhouette has become most important in coats as well as frocks, and seems best liked when it is 14 inches from the floor—a rather high level, if old standards of judgment are to be applied.

Fox Fur Accents the Flare of a Costume of Gray Crepe de Chine and Matching Satin.

Fulness is subtly added to even severely tailored models, and oftenest perhaps by an inverted pleat, though other means are resorted to.

The cape is being exploited again for day wear. Paton being one of its sponsors. His contribution, which has found favor, is developed of silk rather than cloth, and stresses the fitted and sharply defined shoulder line, achieved in shoulder yokes, to which the gathered sections of the cape-body are attached. This model is meeting with success, both in evening and afternoon versions.

The fact that the cape has been converted to the tailored styling of current wrap modes is one of its appealing features.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

Pop, dash and speed is every act on the Opera House vaudeville program which opened last night and will be programmed again tonight and tomorrow. "The Echoes of Scotland Revere" give a musical and dancing and singing offering that is very pleasing. The photoplay, "The Star Dust Trail" starring Shirley Mason and Bryant Washburn was also exceptionally good.

The Paramount screen version of J. M. Barrie's stage play, "Peter Pan," a Herbert Brenson production for Paramount, is the feature at Koeper's again tonight and tomorrow. The picture is an adaptation by Willis Goldbeck and features Betty Bronson, Ernest Torrence, Cyril Chadwick, Virginia Brown Faire and Anna May Wong in the leading roles.

At the Auditorium tonight, Lloyd Hughes, Lucille Jackson and Myrtle Steadman in "The Judgment of the Storm."

Vaudeville, consisting of six acts, which were presented at the Orpheum Monday for the first half of the week, pleased immensely. Colleen Moore and Conway Tunde are seen in "Flirting with Love."

Eat PRUNES for BREAKFAST and enjoy a better day

It's surprising how much brighter the old world looks to the man who eats the right kind of breakfast!

It's surprising, too, how a dish of Prunes will make an ordinary breakfast "right!"

You see, Prunes do more for your system than merely supply the vitamins, natural sugars and fruit salts which are likewise found in some other fruits. Prunes are also a "roughage" fruit—high in laxative properties. They provide, as few other foods do, that cellulose or tender fruit tissue so needed to add bulk to the diet and aid in elimination.

Here's a Rule it Pays to Follow

Serve Prunes often—for their healthfulness, economy and fine-flavor. And be sure you get the best Prunes! Insist upon SUNSWEET PRUNES—sweet, plump, thin-skinned fruit from California's famous orchards—grown, selected and packed by the growers themselves.

Protect yourself! Buy SUNSWEET PRUNES, always clean and fresh, in the convenient, new 2 lb. carton—or in bulk, from the regular 25 lb. box. Their uniform high quality will delight you.
